

OCSS Free Workshop, April 24th

Join us on Saturday, April 24, at 10 a.m. to discover and share ways to engage students in their local communities! Community study develops civic identity and engages students in meaningful learning. You will hear from expert social studies teachers who helped students dig into and uncover local history, raising awareness of the significance of their communities. We will also share resources and have time to brainstorm and collaborate with other teachers. CEUs available! If you would like to present or have questions about this event, feel free to contact the event host, Jennifer Hinkle at jkh358@gmail.com
